

This is where you will hear the show when it is made available on the site. Every month I'll be choosing a theme and since Tune Talks is all about variety of course you will be hearing about songs from various artists in various genres.

Much of the music I will be discussing is by mainstream artists from as far back as the 50's all the way to today; but even though the artists are mainstream, it doesn't mean you will be familiar with every song so pay attention. Some of the music I discuss will be by Independent (indie) artists or lesser known artists, so really pay attention; they could be mainstream tomorrow!

Follow me on Twitter and Instagram to keep up with when new shows are available and for extra bits of information.

For Copyright reasons, I am prohibited from broadcasting music discussed on my show through this site; which is why the only music you will hear on this site is the music I hold copyrights to or have express written permission to play.

To hear the music that is discussed on the show you will need to access my Spotify playlists. You can do this by going to Spotify and searching Tune Talks and whatever topic you wish to hear. If a song is not available on Spotify, it may be available on YouTube. Follow me on Twitter to find YouTube posts and more.

I hope that you enjoy the show and the website. If you have any questions please let me know.

Thanks for tuning in.
